Good afternoon

It is hard to believe that we are nearing the end of Week 4 of our new normal – remote work, remote instruction, and remote learning.

The Special Education Teachers, Child Study Team members, and other support staff have been collaborating and working diligently to support our students. I commend them for all of their efforts in making this process work, all while attempting to keep some level of normalcy in their own lives. They continue to be available to help - please contact them directly about your concerns.

As we have discussed from the beginning, this is an evolving process and we will continue to move forward to ensure that our students receive the supports they require.

I believe that one of the hardest aspects we are dealing with is staying connected - as we are all so used to a different level of interaction. As this continues to evolve, we are finding ways to stay in touch, and I have worked with the staff to create a way to stay connected with your children. The result is "My Three Words For You".

Please open the video, share it with your children, and know that we are all thinking of the students and families:
