Dear Parents:

Online learning can be a major struggle for many of our students. Parents, too!! It cannot replace the wonders of being in a classroom, the in-person interactions with teachers and peers and simply the learning method they have spent their lives accustomed to. We can do our best. They can too.

The link below provides you with a number of articles and resources focused on this topic. You might know most of it all already but sometimes you read an article and it gives you the motivation to try something you'd forgotten you had tried before or maybe haven't attempted just yet.

Maybe there will be something in one of these links that could help you and your family.

If not, maybe your weekend will be all about unplugging, enjoying snow and looking ahead to a break!

Sincerely,

Michael Donovan
